

Chloephaga , South American Geese

Upland, Magellan Goose Chloephaga picta			2 SubSpecies Males have white head Females resemble Ruddy-headed goose and yellow orange legs Males have Black legs	Length	23.6 - 28.5 in
				Weight	7.4-9.9 lbs
Ruddy Headed Goose Chloephaga rubidiceps			M/F same plummage	Culmen Length	18-21 in
				Weight	2.6-4.5 lbs
Andean Goose Chloephaga melanoptera			M/F Same Plummage Coral Red Bill	Length	28-30 in
				Weight	6 - 8 lbs
Orinoco Goose Neochem jubata			Orange band on Mantle Females have same markings except colors are more drab and with more orange legs	Length	24 -30 IN
				Weight	2.9-4.0 lbs
Kelp Goose Chloephaga hybrida			Male White Female Chocolate 2 subspecies with the malvinarum only foug on the Faulkland Islands	Length	22-26 in
				Weight	4.4 - 7.9 lbs
Ashy-headed Goose Chloephaga poliocephala			M/F Same Plummage Bills are Black Heads and necks are gray,	Length	20 - 24 in
				Weight	3.2/5.0 lbs
				Two interbreeding morphs (like Blue goose) exist for males. One morph causes black-barred breast plumage while the other causes white breast plumage. A greenish-bronze speculum heads and necks are red-brown, their back, breast, and flanks gray and buff with brown barring, their belly cinnamon, and their tail black. Their wing's upperside is gray and the underside gray, black, and white Adults' heads and bodies are white. The wing's primaries and the tail are black with a glossy green. legs and feet are light red. males have an off-white head, neck, and breast with slight buffy streaks on the nape and flanks and a crescent of dark brown behind the flanks. Their wings are black with a wide white speculum. Legs are bright red. Male Black bill with Pink spot. Female pink bill. Both with yellow feet and legs upper back and breast are chestnut with fine vermiculation. flanks barred black and white, and their belly white.wings show white leading and trailing patches and a green speculum.Legs and feet orange with black markings.	